

Abstract :

Applications for spreadsheet software in business settings are unlimited. Lei Li and Phil Bryant from the Turner College of Business offer a few uses and applications of the popular spreadsheet software, Microsoft Excel, within two mathematically oriented courses: MISM 2115-Technology Applications in Business Decision Making, and BUSA 3115-Quantitative Analysis for Business I.

"Dr. Bryant is an Assistant Professor of Management at Columbus State University, earned his Ph.D. from the University of Memphis. His primary research, teaching and consulting activities are concentrated in Talent Management and Entrepreneurship. Dr. Bryant's award winning writings have been published in the Academy of Management Perspectives (2010) and the Academy of Strategic Management Journal (2012)."
Bryant is co-author of the 2012 book entitled Managing Employee Turnover.

``Dr. Li is an Assistant Professor of Management Information Systems in the College of Business and Computer Science at Columbus State University. He received a Ph.D. in Computer Information Systems and a MS in Computer Science from Georgia State University, a BS in Mineral Processing from China University of Mining and Technology. Dr. Li's main research interests include web-based information integration and user adaptation, project risk management and information system education. Dr. Li's research has appeared in the Journal of Systems and Software, Journal of Information Systems Education, Journal of Technology Research, and Journal of Learning in Higher Education."