

In this talk I will give a survey of the existing discrete models in Population Dynamics and discuss them from different points of view. We will also introduce some new topics and propose questions for further study.